

Powerchex launches new corporate website

A new, state of the art corporate website launched today, signals the new web presence of leading pre-employment screening firm Powerchex.

London, September 19, 2008. Powerchex, the UK's leading pre-employment screening firm for financial institutions, launched a brand new customer-focused, interactive website this month. The site, www.powerchex.co.uk, is designed in direct response to Powerchex's research into what clients want.

Powerchex's Managing Director Alexandra Kelly says: "At Powerchex we have always taken customer care very seriously, talking and listening to our clients and taking their views on board. Over the last year we have conducted a series of informal research programmes and the results have influenced the new website design and content."

Powerchex is well known for its award winning pre-employment screening services within the financial services sector. The new website gives clients detailed information about the different screening and vetting options available to HR departments.

The company has experienced phenomenal growth since its foundation in 2004 and has established itself in the forefront of thought leadership in the field of pre-employment screening. The new website focuses on highlighting best practices in a clear and concise way.

Alexandra Kelly adds: "We are in a competitive market. Clients rightly expect a flawless, quick and professional service. At Powerchex we know that our solutions are not only the very best available but also that they are being constantly refined to remain in line with the evolving expectations of our clients."
